

Who we are

- consultation - advisory company specializing in providing comprehensive services for the areas of environment
 - legal expertise and practical advice, analytical work and a comprehensive legislative work in the field of environment
 - ensuring the implementation of project solutions in selected areas of environment
 - geologic, hydrogeologic, atmogeochemic and geophysical prospection; remediation of contaminated sites; groundwater and bed rock monitoring
 - providing of a specific waste types management (e.g. medicine waste products, waste from used portable batteries)

CENVIS- Center for Environmental Services, Ltd.

is a slovak company, which since the year 2001 provides a wide range of professional advisory-consultative and legislative services for the design and application of environmental law. We also provide full or partial implementation of various design solutions in selected areas of the environment.

Beside these activities we also focus on collection and transport of specific waste types (e.g. medicine waste products, waste from used portable batteries and accumulators) and their delivery to specialized facilities for recovery or disposal. All of these facilities are operated in accordance with the Waste Act.

Over the previous years of action we have undertaken several activities, especially in the areas of packaging and waste management, water protection and pollution, nature protection and landscape and sustainable development.

In our international activities we are on the position of national experts participated in several projects for the European Commission in particular to assess compliance of Slovak legislation with the European legislation for different environment.

Our service with confidence and repeatedly used, among other major players and the energy and chemical industry, waste, and both used with own brand CENVIS

Our goal

Maximum customer satisfaction, which can only be achieved through high-quality services, professionalism and a guarantee of reliability. The quality of our activities, is guaranteed by an optimal composition of our staff of experts with years of practical experience and cutting-edge knowledge of the legislation on the environment. Our company has a seasoned team of legal, technical and natural sciences education, of which more in the past worked directly for the Ministry of Environment of Slovak Republic. At the international level, our legal experts have status of "national experts". Thus we are able to respond flexibly to a wide range of customer requirements form and manner that is fully compatible with the internal systems and processes established by the client.

Consistency, accountability, reliability and professionalism are our basic principles by which we seek the favor of the new clients.